I love listening to audio books after having already read the books, hearing the characters you know and love come alive is an absolute joy. Not only that, despite having already read the book a couple of times, just listening to Fry's narration, you pick up on so much you missed. The way the certain words and sections are stressed or "voiced" differently to how you read them, really brings things into a new light. And I can't think of a time Fry, did not get this exactly right, he's got the perfect voice for audio books, keeping you constantly interested and entertained, and wanting to listen to just one more chapter. This, combined with, in my opinion, one of the better Potter books, makes this a must listen.
